

BAD TO WORSE

by ROBERT EDESON

ABOUT THE BOOK

Out in the Arizona desert, Walter Reckles emerges unscathed from an air crash in a classified zone. He's under intense pressure to retract his story about hitting an illicit drone – a story that reignites a century-old feud between the families of Mortiss and Worse. Meanwhile, in a cave in the Ferendes, Edvard Tøssentern has discovered a wall of indecipherable hieroglyphs and deep inside the cave something sinister is stirring. Brilliant intelligence analyst Richard Worse is called in to investigate. Can he live long enough to discover the truth that will save Reckles and destroy the Mortiss empire? Things will go from bad to worse before you find out.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Robert Edeson was born in Perth, Western Australia, and educated at Christ Church Grammar School, the University of Western Australia and the University of Cambridge. He has been a consultant anaesthetist and researcher, publishing in the neuroscience, biophysical and mathematical literatures.

KEY POINTS

- A novel where friendship and morality triumph over evil plots and cunning plans, in a most entertaining way.
- Edeson's first novel, The Weaver Fish, won the T.A.G. Hungerford Award and was subsequently published in the UK and the USA. Bad to Worse is both sequel and stand-alone.

PRAISE FOR THE AUTHOR

'Fiendishly clever ... unlike anything you've read before.'
Books+Publishing

'That Edeson can balance action clichés with gorgeous scientific asides is proof of his unique gifts.'
Australian Book Review

'Congenial characters, a good serve of suspense and a dash of romance thrown in. More please.'
